'Asean's future is with its kids'

Young delegates attend forum to help shape child protection policies

PUTRAJAYA: The future of Asean should not just be defined by economic growth or digital progress, but by how well its 200 million children are protected from violence today, says Dr Wanita, Family and Community Development Minister.

Datuk Seri Nancy Shukri (pic) cited the number from Unicef data, saying it represents roughly one in every three member states' total population.

"These figures clearly demonstrate that the future of Asean rests in the hands of its children," she said when opening the 9th Asean Child Forum here yesterday. The forum is being held for the first time.

The forum gathered child representatives aged 12 to 17 from each Asean member state to present recommendations on better protecting children against violence, as mandated by their facilitators.

Nancy said this forum serves as a platform for children to share their views, values and opinions, possibly to amend the Child Act wherever needed.

"We are not children, so we want to hear directly from them, their own views. This is a very good opportunity for them to express how they feel and what they think should be done for the well-being of them.

"If we do not bring them in, we risk losing opportunities for them to shape the future.

"The theme also aligns with Asean's commitment to finalise the Asean Regional Plan of Action on the Elimination of Violence Against Children 2026 to 2030 by the end of this year, as endorsed during the 45th Asean Summit in the Philippines.

"Malaysia is deeply honoured to host this forum because we believe that child participation must never be reduced to a symbolic exercise. Their voices must be genuinely and meaningfully heard," she added.

Separately, she reminded parents to continuously safeguard their children's online privacy, particularly when sharing details about their lives publicly.

"Sometimes, parents may not realise that by sharing so much personal information about their children, they are unknowingly exposing them to risks such as exploitation by those who prey on their naivety. We must educate ourselves and our children," she said during a press conference at the forum.

She added that the Malaysian Communications and Multimedia Commission (MCMC) is also in part, while the ministry ensures engagement programmes with parents remain active.

"We have to continuously engage parents so they will be reminded. We don't tell them directly, but we do it indirectly through online platforms and our own messages," she said.

"As a mother and now a grandmother, I would urge all parents to always give priority to yourselves and your children, protection is a priority" ensure privacy for your family."

Teliti cadangan wujud Daftar Pesalah KRT

Kuala Lumpur: Kerajaan sedang meneliti cadangan mewujudkan Daftar Pesalah Keganasan Rumah Tangga (KRT) bagi merekod dan memantau pelaku yang mengulangi kesalahan berkenaan, kata Timbalan Menteri Pembangunan Wanita, Keluarga dan Masyarakat Lim Hui Ying.

Beliau berkata, langkah itu diteliti bersama Kementerian Pembangunan Wanita, Keluarga dan Masyarakat (KPWKM), Polis Diraja Malaysia (PDRM) dan mahkamah bagi mengelakkan pelaku mengulangi jenayah sama terhadap mangsa.

"Sehubungan itu, tindakan susulan untuk meneliti lanjut cadangan ini sedang diambil bersama... untuk membangunkan satu mekanisme bersesuaian untuk merekod dan memantau pelaku keganasan rumah tangga berulang melalui rekod jenayah atau daftar kesalahan yang berkaitan, sebab pada masa ini kita tidak ada data tepat.

"KPWKM komited dalam menangani isu KRT melalui pendekatan menyeluruh membabitkan kerajaan dan masyarakat," katanya pada sesi soal jawab di Dewan Negara, semalam.

Beliau menjawab soalan tambahan Senator Tiew Way Keng berhubung perancangan kerajaan bagi membendung dan mengelakkan kejadian keganasan rumah tangga daripada terus berulang.

Sementara itu, Lim berkata KPWKM memperuntukkan RM2.1 juta pada tahun ini bagi kerja menaik taraf lebih 20 tempat selamat bagi mangsa KRT kendalian kerajaan di seluruh negara.

Beliau berkata, ini bagi memastikan premis berkenaan berada dalam keadaan kondusif, berfungsi dengan baik dan bersedia menerima mangsa KRT yang memerlukan perlindungan sementara.

Beliau memaklumkan menurut rekod Jabatan Kebajikan Masyarakat (JKM) sehingga Julai lalu, sebanyak 43 tempat selamat diluluskan di bawah Akta Keganasan Rumah Tangga 1994 (Akta 521), dengan 39 daripadanya disenggarakan kerajaan manakala empat lagi dikendalikan badan bukan kerajaan (NGO). - BERNAMA
